Instruction to use TweetInfo

We will provide you with the user interface to customise using the filter button on the right-hand side. Use the filter option to customise your timeline based on the bot, hate speech, etc., then browse the tweet as the previous website. Please respond to at least ten tweets. You can also look at the summary of the tweet by clicking on the meta button.

To filter the tweets, please check box the parameter and click on search. By default, all filter options are set as no. Until now, hate, speech and misinformation are mutually exclusive (So you can not choose yes for both options simultaneously). In Table 1, We are given the list of options available for the customisation and their description. We provide a chance to get an overview of the tweet; please click on the icon.

Table 1: Instructions to use the customisation button on Tweetinfo

Filter Option (Radio Button)	Description
Bot	It provides an option to include or remove the bot account from your timeline. It has the binary value yes and no. Yes, it will allow the bot on the timeline with the radio button, while no will remove all bot accounts. By default, it includes both a bot and a non-bot account.
Hate Speech	This button allows the user to remove the hateful tweet from your timeline. It has the binary value yes and no; with the checkbox yes, you will allow hate speech on the timeline, while no will remove all hate speech tweets. By default, it includes all tweets from the database.
Misinformation	This button allows the user to remove the misinformation tweet from your timeline. Yes, with the radio button, you will enable misinformation on the timeline, while no will remove all misleading tweets. By default, it includes all tweets from the database.
Verified	If you want only verified accounts, you can choose yes. With option no, it will remove all non-verified accounts.
Sentiment	Provides an option to filter the tweets based on positive, negative, and neutral tweets. You can select the positive, negative, and neutral tweets with the radio button.
Tweet Category	It relates to hate speech if you want to remove the sexist or racist tweet.
Language	In general, tweets are in multiple languages, but you can choose the tweets based on the language. Currently, the majority of tweets are in English and Spanish language only.
